"Move, you worthless dog!" shouted a man. He was yelling at a great big yellow dog. The dog was pulling a heavy cart loaded with pots, pans, and many other things. His master was going to town to sell them.

"Today is market day," yelled the man. "I must get there early to get a good spot for my cart!"

The dog thought to himself, "You got up late. And you didn't give me any food or water for two days."

But, of course, the poor dog could not tell his master this. The day was late, and the sun was very hot. The dog was getting dizzy. Finally, the great big dog fell over, exhausted.

"Get up, you worthless beast!" yelled the man. He beat the dog with a stick. But the dog lay still. "Lazy dog," said the man. He untied Patrasche from the cart. Then, he pushed the dog with his foot into the ditch. "I'll leave (A) you here to die. Maybe I can steal another big dog in town."

19. Why did the dog fall over exhausted?

Tom always got into trouble. Aunt Polly wanted Tom to be a good boy. She wanted him to know how to work hard. One Saturday morning, Aunt Polly said to Tom.

"Tom, you have to paint the fence outside the house."

"But it's Saturday!" yelled Tom. "I play on Saturdays!"

"You must learn to work hard," said Aunt Polly.

Tom was (A) miserable. He painted two boards and sat down. The fence seemed enormous! Then, he saw Jim coming down the street. Jim was carrying a pail for fetching water.

"Hey, Jim," said Tom, "I'll fetch your water if you paint some."

"No thanks, Tom. I'd rather wait in line for water. My friends are there. I don't want to be alone painting a fence!"

Ben came along next. But this time, Tom didn't look at Ben. He was painting. Suddenly, he stepped back and looked at the fence like an artist examining his work.

"Hello, Tom," said Ben.

"Oh, Ben, I didn't see you!" said Tom.

"I'm going swimming," said Ben. "I bet you wish you could go, too. But you have to work."

"Do you think this is work?" asked Tom. "I hardly ever get to paint."

21. Choose the one with the opposite meaning as (A).

- ① sad
- ② happy
- ③ tired
- ④ busy

22. Which of the following is NOT true?

- ① Tom doesn't like to work.
- ② Tom makes it a rule to work on Saturdays.
- ③ Jim is not interested in painting the fence.
- ④ Aunt Polly wanted Tom to be a good boy and to know how to work hard.
