The department store was closed. But, suddenly, one of the doors opened. A thief sneaked into the store. He walked all around the store. He looked at many different clothes. He saw suits, pants, shirts, and neckties. He grabbed many clothes and put them in a bag. He didn't steal any cheap outfits. He only took the most expensive items.

The next day, the workers arrived. They found some clothes were missing. So they called the police. The police looked around for clues, but there weren't any. Just then, a very well-dressed man walked into the store. Beep beep beep! The alarm went off. The police grabbed the man. It was the thief! He had forgotten to take the price tags off the clothes!

Dear Diary,

I'm very excited. Three weeks ago, I started a flower garden in my backyard. I got a hoe and dug up the dirt. Then I planted some seeds in the ground. I watered them every day to give them strong roots.

Two weeks ago, they started coming up above the ground. At first, they were as small as my little finger. But now my flowers are getting bigger. Some of them are getting buds. Soon, they will bloom and have beautiful flowers. Oh, what flowers did I plant? I planted some irises. And I also have violets and carnations, too. They will have many different colors. And I have one sunflower. It will grow as high as a small tree.
